PARTICIPANTS:

Graduates of Goodwin College's nursing program — 48 in all for the academic session ending in April — will receive their pins this Thursday at a ceremony underscoring their dedication to caring for human life as professional nurses. Marking the culmination of many months of rigorous study, the tradition serves to reinforce the strong bonds formed within the graduating class, as well as celebrating the entrance of the graduates into the healthcare field, where they will go on to work in hospitals, elder-care services, and healthcare centers throughout Connecticut.

ABOUT GOODWIN COLLEGE'S NURSING PROGRAM:

Goodwin College began its Registered Nurse (RN) nursing program in 2003 in response to the severe nursing shortage in Connecticut. The program quickly grew to become the second largest in the state, gaining recognition within the healthcare community as a provider of rigorous, top-quality Registered Nurse training. More than 500 nursing students have graduated since the program began. This year, Goodwin College also began offering a bachelor's degree program, RN to BSN (Registered Nurse to Bachelor of Science in Nursing) Completion Program.
