Make a meaningful difference for patients and providers

The healthcare industry is reliant on so much more than direct patient care — there are many skilled professionals that operate behind-the-scenes to make sure providers and facilities operate smoothly and patients feel seen. A Medical Billing and Coding certificate is perfect for those who are interested in making a positive difference in the healthcare field, but don't necessarily want clinical patient experience.

You can earn your Medical Billing and Coding certificate from Goodwin University in as few as 12-18 months! You'll gain the skills to transform medical information into codes, helping make the payment process more manageable by acting as a connection between patients, healthcare providers, and insurance companies.Get started on your path to a rewarding healthcare career today!

Pursue your passion for helping others with a Medical Billing and Coding certificate

Play an important part in reducing financial stress

When individuals receive medical care, there is often underlying anxiety surrounding the financial aspects of their visit.

For patients, it can be difficult to navigate the complexities of health insurance while also managing whatever health concerns have brought them to a facility. Medical billing and coding professionals are responsible for converting health information into codes, which allows the provider to get reimbursement from health insurance companies. You'll use your knowledge of medical billing and coding to provide clarity and make the payment process run more smoothly, easing the burden on every party — including patients, providers, and insurance companies.

Sharpen your communication skills

When you're managing sensitive medical and financial information, it's important to communicate with compassion.

Patients are often under a significant amount of stress, and your ability to clearly explain the health insurance reimbursement process, as well as answer any questions, can make a big difference in their overall experience. At Goodwin University, we'll help you master the art of communication, so you can exchange complex information between your facility and health insurance companies seamlessly and provide patients with a sense of relief.

Discover a world of career opportunities

The medical billing and coding field is growing rapidly, meaning you'll have access to a large network of career opportunities once you earn your certificate!

Medical billers and coders often go on to pursue rewarding careers in consulting firms, hospitals, community health clinics, insurance companies, government agencies, and more!

Online classes

Our Medical Billing and Coding program is designed with the flexibility you deserve

At Goodwin, we're all about convenience. Other than a hybrid capstone requirement, our Medical Billing and Coding program is entirely online — helping you study on a schedule that's suited to you.

Synchronous

Some courses in this program are offered in the form of online, face-to-face meetings with your classmates and faculty.

This gives you the opportunity to participate in engaging conversations about course material — without the inconvenience of commuting to campus.

Asynchronous

Our asynchronous courses are the perfect way to earn your certificate while working around your busy schedule.

Asynchronous courses can be completed on your time and don't require any face-to-face meetings, so they're a great fit for the working professional. You'll work independently to complete your assignments and touch base with our faculty along the way to make sure you are getting the support you need.

Hybrid classes

The Medical Billing and Coding program has a hybrid capstone requirement.

During your final semester, you'll complete a hybrid capstone course, balancing your time between remote classes and in-person learning. Days and times for capstones vary by semester.
