

Associate Degree in Funeral Service

Achieve a rewarding career honoring human life

Since the earliest days of humankind, funeral rites have been an important part of the grieving process. Funeral service professionals provide invaluable support to loved ones during this difficult time — ensuring that the deceased is laid to rest with the utmost respect and dignity. At Goodwin University, our Funeral Service program is offered on campus and online — so you can prepare for an in-demand career in this esteemed field on your time.

Earn your Funeral Service degree on your timetable

We offer two flexible pathways to earn your degree:

- On-ground program: Ideal for those who prefer in-person instruction and a campus-based experience.
- Fully online program: Designed for students seeking maximum flexibility with minimal on-campus requirements.

Both formats feature a 65-credit curriculum that can be completed in as few as 16 months full-time.

Gain career-ready experience

Our comprehensive program will teach you to address a range of funeral service processes, from the initial pronouncement of death to the final disposition of the deceased. Through your internship experience at funeral homes across the state, you will gain exposure to embalming, restorative art, and business management. All internships must include participation in ten embalming operations, funeral directing, first calls, and removals of human remains.
