

CERTIFICATE IN SCHOOL SAFETY AND SECURITY

It seems that wherever we look, we are met with reports on the alarming increase of emergency situations in schools. It's natural to turn away from these difficult realities, but for those with the right combination of strength, determination, and the desire to "do what's right," there is another — better — response.

Take control. Get involved. Be a leader. There is a role you can play in prevention and response.

Goodwin College has created a 16-credit collegiate School Safety and Security Certificate for individuals looking to begin or advance their careers in the school safety and security field.

Students who complete this course may choose to stay on at Goodwin College to pursue six additional credits for an advanced certificate in School Safety and Security, which delves further into principles of planning and administration.

There is an ever-increasing demand for individuals to commit to the future safety and security of our schools. Learn more about the many possibilities today.
