Goodwin University faculty may progress through four levels of rank: Instructor, Assistant Professor, Associate Professor and Professor. Deans assign an appropriate level of faculty rank at the time of hire. DEFINITIONS:
The functions of the professorate that are evaluated for promotion are based on Boyer’s (2012) model of scholarship. Teaching excellence requires that faculty use models and practices that achieve optimal student learning. Service includes all activities that aid the community in addressing societal problems within the University, local, national, and international communities. Scholarship is both the discovery of new knowledge through innovation and research, and the application of that knowledge across disciplines. Scholarship involves a commitment to learning and developing expertise in one’s career field. Examples of teaching, service, and scholarship by faculty rank are included in Appendix 2 (Full-Time Faculty Promotion Items List).

EXCLUSIONS:
At times, search for new faculty members does not generate candidates with the above degrees to fill positions that require highly specialized skills. For example, certain fields, including the creative arts and computer specialties, do not always have highly defined or prevalent Master’s degree tracks. In such cases, the Provost and Dean of Faculty, based on the recommendation of the Dean, will review candidates to determine if they have appropriate alternatives to Master’s degrees. On occasion, Goodwin University will consider applicants who have a minimum baccalaureate degree plus five (5) years of experience in the appropriate field plus additional certification, such as CPA, RT, or MCSE (Microsoft Certified Systems Engineer) or minimum baccalaureate degree plus ten (10) years of experience in the appropriate field plus enrollment in a Master's program in the appropriate academic discipline. In the latter case, the individual is expected to complete the Master's program within five (5) years of date of hire.

Furthermore, in rare cases, the University may hire a new faculty member at the rank of Associate Professor when there is demonstrated teaching experience elsewhere.
